Mount Everest

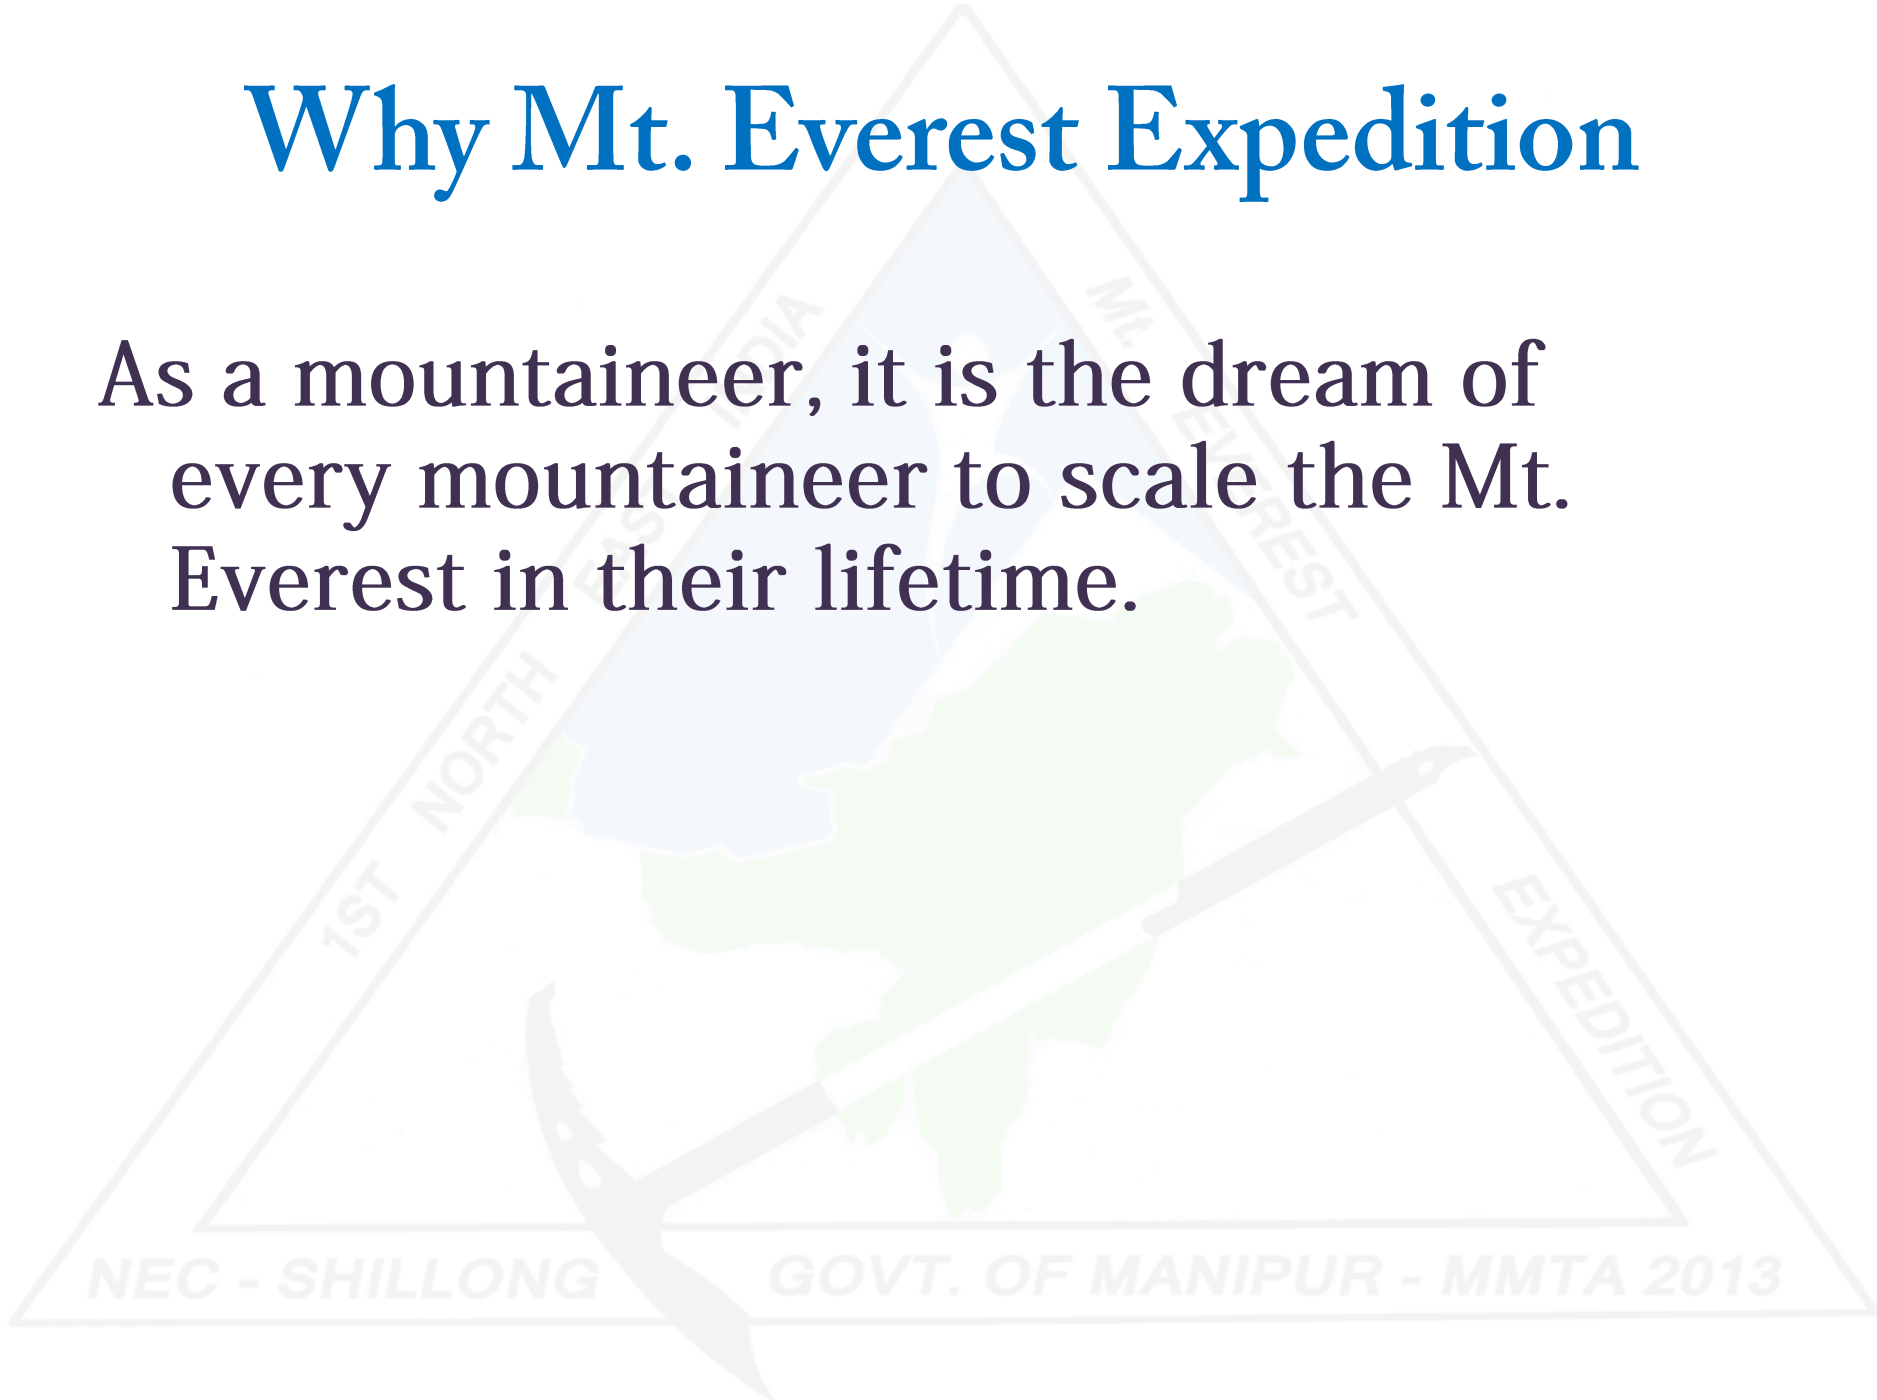

- Mount Everest is 29, 035 feet (8848meters).
- Mt. Everest is named after Sir George Everest in 1865, the British Surveyor-general of India.
- Prior to naming the Mt. Everest, it was known as Peak 15.
- Mt. Everest has the distinction of being the mountain with the highest altitude.

Route to Mt. Everest(from EBC)

Why Mt. Everest Expedition

As a mountaineer, it is the dream of every mountaineer to scale the Mt. Everest in their lifetime.

Objective of the Mission

- Share the experiences of Adventure-sports to the youths
- To foster a spirit of risk taking, co-operative team work and the capacity of ready and vital response and alertness to challenging situations and especially the quality of 'Endurance' .
- This scheme of training includes serving the first generation learners (students and non-students alike) of both rural and urban areas with particular thrust on student community
- Motivate to strengthen institutional structures to support adventure programmes
- Enhance the leadership qualities of our youths
- Outdoor education and hence a desire for conserving the natural resources
- Preserving the cultural heritage
