North East Centre for Environmental Education and Research
Imphal, Manipur (INDIA)

NeBIO is a quarterly journal published by North East Centre for Environmental Education and Research (NECEER), Imphal (Manipur). The journal is first of its kind in the North East region, which is mainly concerned with the conservation of biodiversity of North Eastern states of India.

The journal aimed not only to encourage research works but also to bridge the gap between various forms of methodologies, perspectives and knowledge production. The need for publishing such a journal was also prompted by the fact that there has not been such an interactions between all those engaged in research areas and environmental education so far in the region.

Academicians, Researchers, Scientists, Students, Environmentalists, Conservation activists, Forest officials and all those who concern for the environment and conservation of biodiversity in Northeast India are invited to contribute articles for the journal.

About NECEER:

North East Centre for Environmental Education and Research (NECEER) is a public interest research and educational organisation based in Imphal, Manipur. NECEER was established on 9th December, 2007 with an aim to educate and create awareness about the changing environment and conservation of biodiversity in North-eastern states of India through non formal education by organising training programme, workshops, campaigns, seminars, etc. Research and Development Division of the organisation aims to explore the floral and faunal diversity of the region and framing of conservation strategies with the help of local communities for the conservation of biodiversity. Floristic surveys, ecological and ethnobiological studies are some of the initial works taken up by the organisation (till fully equipped laboratories are established to undertake biochemical, microbial and biotechnological studies). Conservation of sacred groves, wetlands, water bodies and fragmented ecosystems are given priority in the sustainable development programme of the organisation. Communication and Publication Division is another main division of the organisation which aimed to disseminate environmental and conservation awareness and education through periodicals, briefing papers, exhibitions, posters/pamphlets, films and other products.

NECEER's Mission

"To promote public awareness, education and research for the protection and conservation of biodiversity in North East India".

Vision

"Conservation of biodiversity for better future".

NeBIO is a quarterly journal published by North East Centre for Environmental Education and Research (NECEER), Imphal (Manipur). The journal is first of its kind in the North East region, which is mainly concerned with the conservation of biodiversity of North Eastern states of India.
